this introductory text explores the gendered history of the modern middle east from the eighteenth century to the present studying the various ways in which gender has defined the region and shaped relations in the modern era the book captures three aspects of change simultaneously the events that mark the modern middle east women's encounters with the transition to modernity and gendered responses to modernity it contains both new fieldwork and a synthesis of secondary scholarship that highlight the role of gender in the modernization of egypt turkey iran the levant and the persian gulf states chapters are organized chronologically to chart the rapid developments of the modern era but each chapter also stands on its own with coverage of masculinity and femininity sexuality marriage and the family labor and women's contributions to arab spring uprisings through this comprehensive account the book pushes back on stereotypes that the middle east is an ahistorical region and that women have not been vital actors in the process of change richly illustrated and accessible for a variety of readers history women and gender in the modern middle east is an ideal resource for undergraduate and postgraduate students in gender studies and middle eastern history this dazzling anthology features the work of seventy nine outstanding writers from all over the arab speaking world from morocco in the west to iraq in the east syria in the north to sudan in the south edited by denys johnson davies called by edward said the leading arabic to english translator of our time this treasury of arab voices is diverse in styles and concerns but united by a common language it spans the full history of modern arabic literature from its roots in western cultural influence at the end of the nineteenth century to the present day flowering of naguib mahfouz s literary sons and daughters among the egyptian writers who laid the foundation for the arabic literary renaissance are the great tawfik al hakim the short story pioneer mahmoud teymour and yusuf idris who embraced egypt s vibrant spoken vernacular an excerpt from the sudanese writer tayeb salih s novel season of migration to the north one of the arab world s finest appears alongside the libyan writer ibrahim al koni s tales of the tuaregs of north africa the iraqi writer mohamed khudayir s masterly story clocks like horses and the work of such women writers as lebanon s hanan al shaykh and morocco s leila abouzeid lasting from september 1980 to august 1988 the iran iraq war was the longest conventional war fought between two states in the twentieth century it marked a period that began just after a revolutionary government in iran became an islamic republic and saddam hussein consolidated power in iraq it ended with both wartime governments still in power borders unchanged yet hundreds of thousands of people dead neither side emerged as a clear victor but both sides would eventually claim victory in some form dust that never settles considers how iraqi and iranian writers have wrestled with representing the iran iraq war and its legacy from wartime to the present it demonstrates how writers from both countries have transformed once militarized officially sanctioned war literatures into literatures of mourning and eventually into vehicles of protest that presented powerful counternarratives to the official state narratives in writing the first comparative study of the literary output of this war amir moosavi presents a new paradigm for the study of modern middle eastern literatures he brings persian and arabic fiction into conversation with debates on the political importance of cultural production across the middle east and north africa and he puts an important new canon of works in conversation with comparative literary and cultural studies within the global south every 3rd issue is a quarterly cumulation the war in iraq has put the condition of iraqi women firmly on the global agenda for years their lives have been framed by state oppression economic sanctions and three wars now they must play a seminal role in reshaping their country s future for the twenty first century nadje al ali challenges the myths and misconceptions which have dominated debates about iraqi women bringing a much needed gender perspective to bear on the central political issue of our time based on life stories and oral histories of iraqi women she traces the history of iraq from post colonial independence to the emergence of a women s movement in the 1950s saddam hussein s early policy of state feminism to the turn towards greater social conservatism triggered by war and sanctions yet the book also shows that far from being passive victims iraqi women have been and continue to be key social and political actors following the invasion al ali analyses the impact of occupation and islamist movements on women s lives and argues that us led calls for liberation has led to a greater backlash against iraqi women this indispensable guide to modern arabic literature in english translation features not only a comprehensive bibliography but also chapters on fiction drama poetry and autobiography as well as a special chapter on iraq s arabic literature by focusing on najib mahfuz one of arabic literature s luminaries and on poetry a major if not the major genre of the region altoma assesses the progress made towards a wider reception of arabic writing throughout the western world
